5 Week Online Class with the study of two compositions per week, downloadable pdf's and video's will be provided for each student that signs up with interaction from the Instructor through the class session.

Materials Need: Sketchbook-spiral is nice, glue sticks, scissors, magazine, wax paper, baby wipes, ruler, pencil and fine sandpaper.

Below, S or Z design composition was done with magazines in a sketchbook, has moved to an abstract study.

We will be working with simplicity to study some basic compositions layouts using a viewfinder to find our reference images then a bit of drawing to deconstruction your reference to their simple forms. With a class on line your study can be done when it's comfortable for you. Hopeful you will explore these compositional layouts and find your favorite and like me find ones that you never tried before. The choice is up to you as to sanding magazine pages to add extra texture and alter the surface of the paper.

Points of interest in this class

- Using a viewfinder tool to help you find a reference image.
- Using simple materials to learn and take risks in the creative process.
- Listening intuitively to trust your choices.
- Witness your own progress as you fill your sketchbook solid examples.
- Dissecting an image and reconstruction it to form new perspectives that aid in your compositions.

This class holds and shares simple basic skills for artists and creative souls. A good Craftsman practices their skill and defines the process to make it look easy. Not many are willing to go the extra mile or want to. But to understand composition and make it yours, you must become familiar with it in ways you might not have with one quick painting session. As in life so in art....to know thyself stands true.
